

REVIEW OF THE STOCK MARKET

Upward Tendency Observable to the Eyes of Wall Street Speculators.

RATES FOR MONEY HIGHER

BETTER FEELING AMONG PRODUCERS OF COPPER.

New York, Dec. 13.—An upward tendency of prices of securities was plainly discernible in the stock movement last week, although the uneven and at times irregular action threw some confusion about the tone. The week was notable for the large number and variety of low priced stocks which advanced suddenly and without clear explanation. This feature was the ground for some expressed suspicion of the speculative position, the more so as many of the high grade stocks which have absorbed much attention for a long time and which are better representatives of conditions were almost immovable. The representative stocks quite naturally responded first to a widespread influence of a change in the course of general business.

Lower Grades Coming Up.

A more belated response in the lower grade stocks in business of more special character is equally natural. The normal course of a prolonged speculative campaign under skillful conduct is a shifting from the high grade stocks after attractive profits have accrued in them into low priced issues, the new advance in the latter serving to sustain the tone of the market against the selling to take profits on previous purchases in other stocks. The pursuit of this process reaches in time to the dogs of the market. A movement in such securities is accepted as warning by practical operators of the approach of a culmination of speculative movement. For this reason opinion over the future course of prices has remained divided with the supposition held by a considerable party that the movement was broadening into a general and widespread participation of a kind which overturns all ordinary rules and swells into such excited speculative movements as have proved historically.

Money Rates Hardening.

The past week saw a seasonable hardening of money rates. Accumulations of reserves have commenced to provide for the great annual disbursements and to meet the demands of the holiday trade. A decline in condition of the Bank of England until the end of the year is looked forward to as a consequence, with a possible advance immediately in its official discount rate. The recent bond issues in New York have helped to absorb available credits and to swell the loan and deposit items of the banks to record figures. The government fiscal operations, the bank note redemptions, and subscriptions to the Panama canal bonds are drawing large sums from the New York banks into the sub-treasury. With the decrease of the bank surplus from its former untidy proportions, there arises the question of the sufficiency of money market supplies to carry over the end of the year without exhausting the surplus and a pinch in the money market. In Paris the long looked for Russian loan for $25,000,000 is scheduled for soon after the middle of January.

Message Had No Effect.

The assembling of congress and the president's message was without the disturbing effect sometimes felt. There was a better feeling over the copper trade, and expectations were professed of an early placing of some large orders for steel products by the large railroad systems. The government report on winter wheat was decidedly better than was looked for.

WINDFALL FOR MR. PRICE

Five Points Man Who Received the $2,410 Will Probably Hang on to the Money.

There were no new developments in the "Charles Price" case yesterday. The fellow disappeared somewhere between Woods Cross and Salt Lake City as completely as if the earth had opened and swallowed him. That the fellow should have escaped so easily is a surprise to all who were in touch with the case. It is expected that the man will make a complete getaway. Charles Price of Five Points, who received the paper containing the $2,410, will probably receive the money in due time from the place where it has been deposited for safe keeping. It is not thought likely that anyone will show up with a legitimate claim to the currency. The money was not marked in any way, so the fellow who received it is free from any concern from which it may have been stolen to identify it as its property.

Telegrams are pouring in from different sections of the country where money has been stolen recently, but proof that the fellow belongs to any of those inquiring is lacking.

FUNERAL SERVICES.

Mrs. Nora Young.

The funeral of Mrs. Nora Young, wife of J. H. Young, was held at the Presbyterian church at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and was attended by a large number of friends and relatives, including relatives from Idaho. Members of the Masonic lodge, Royal Neighbors and Lady Macabees attended in a body and the funeral was a most impressive service. The funeral was conducted by Rev. John Edwards Carver, pastor of the church, who preached the funeral sermon. Appropriate music was furnished by members of the church choir. Many beautiful floral offerings were laid upon the casket. Members of the Lady Macabees of which the deceased was a member, conducted the ritualistic service of that organization at the grave in the Mountain View cemetery, where burial was made. The pallbearers were Dr. A. D. Barber, F. M. Nye, James Cooper, Angus Kennedy, William Hampton and W. H. Draney.

Mrs. Leah Smoot.

The funeral of Mrs. Leah Smoot, formerly of Slaterville, who passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Randall, at Five Points, Friday last, was held at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and was largely attended. Rev. W. W. Fleetwood, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, conducted the services and preached the funeral sermon. Burial was made in the Ogden City cemetery.

P. M. Jones.

Impressive funeral services were held over the body of the late P. M. Jones, who died of heart disease while working at his lino type machine in the office of the Examiner Friday morning, were held at the Richey funeral chapel yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The services were conducted by Rev. N. S. Elderkin and the service, which was largely attended. The members of the local typographical union attended the services in a body. Many beautiful floral offerings were laid upon the casket. The body will be held here until Thursday, when it will be shipped back to Omaha for burial.

HIS SKULL FRACTURED.

Impossible to Get Statement From Sam Hartwell in Ogden Hospital.

Sam Hartwell, found near the railroad tracks near Roy a short time after New Year's, is still in an irresponsible condition. Symptoms of pneumonia have developed and the man's left lung and it is feared that some such ailment will cause his death. At the time Hartwell was found it was thought he was a member of the gang responsible for Deputy Sheriff Clark's murder and that an effort had been made by his partners to put him out of the way. Since he has been at the hospital it has been impossible to get a connected statement from him. He is suffering from a serious fracture of the skull.

CAR DID NOT STOP.

Mrs. Susie Dunbar Receives Severe Injuries at Ogden.

Mrs. Susie Dunbar, residing on Twenty-sixth street, fell from a southbound Washington avenue car late Saturday evening, while the car was running at full speed, and was painfully injured at the head and body. Mrs. Dunbar, according to the coroner's story, got on the car at Twenty-sixth street. She failed to notify the conductor to stop at Twenty-sixth street. When the car reached that point she arose, when she fell to the ground and stepped off. The momentum of the car threw the woman to the ground with considerable force, her head striking some hard object, inflicting a scalp wound several inches long. Mrs. Dunbar was taken to Lindquist's undertaking parlors, close by, and given medical attention. Later she was removed to her home. It is not thought that she is seriously injured.

Joint Meeting Held.

At the monthly joint meeting of the Y. M. and Y. W. M. A., held in the First and Second ward meeting houses yesterday afternoon, the work of the coming month was outlined. John L. Herriek, who will leave shortly to take charge of the Denver mission, was the principal speaker at the Second ward meeting. Mr. Herriek also spoke at a priesthood meeting held in the Weber Stake institution during the afternoon.

Salt Lake Man Married.

After traveling all the way from her home in Meckenburg, N. Y., Miss Ellen M. Davies met John W. Tremayne of Salt Lake in this city late Saturday afternoon and they were married. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. W. McCreary of the First Methodist church.

Lecture Well Attended.

At 7 o'clock last evening Elder Heber Sowerford delivered an address on "The Scientific Aspects of the Word of Wisdom" in the Third ward meeting house. The lecture was largely attended.

Tabernacle Services.

Elder Nephi L. Jensen of Salt Lake City was the speaker at the services in the tabernacle yesterday afternoon. Mr. Jensen used for his theme "Mormons: An Answer to the Infidel." There was a large attendance, and the choir rendered a special program.

Flatello Much Better.

John Flatello, the Italian who was shot in the arm at the time of the murder of Deputy Sheriff Clark at Uintah, has sufficiently recovered to be out of doors. It will be some time, however, before he will be able to permanently leave the hospital.

AMUSEMENTS.

The stock company at the Colonial changes this week from slashing military drama to light comedy. "A Gold Mine" is first produced by Nat C. Goodwin, is the bill.

The change shows the versatility of this capable organization. The piece is well played, although to make it thoroughly interesting it should be illumined by some comedy genius such as Goodwin was before he began to go down hill.

"A Gold Mine" is thoroughly western America in its spirit, although the scene is laid in a London drawing room. It breathes the chivalry, the reckless generosity, the gameness and the ready optimism of the great west. Willard Mack, the military hero of last week, appears in this production as the American owner of a gold mine he is attempting to sell in England. He imitates Goodwin's methods closely, which is perhaps the safest way to play the part. Maude Leone makes a handsome and winning widow, and her gowns were so winning that they started the feminine portion of the audience making whispered comment to each other. Jay Quigley was satisfactory as Sir Everhard Foxwood, while Marshall Furness was excellent as Gerald Rioridan, and Agnes Blal appeared to better advantage in the ingenue part than she did last week. Francis Joyner is given only a "bit" again, but even in the tiny part he again shows his capabilities as a character actor. His dandy servant in the military uniform is noticeable. This week he appears as a "clerk," and he makes the character stand out as a finely cut gem—this although he is on the stage not over five minutes during the entire evening.

"A Gold Mine" will be the bill the rest of the week.

There is a good show at the Orpheum this week. Except for one noticeably unfortunate number, the program is of good balance, and the acts in their assembling tend to constitute an evening's entertainment that is at once profitable, instructive and amusing.

The best of the acts is the work of Hope Booth in "The Blonde Lady." Miss Booth is really clever, but it struck a good many people who went there last night that she is not a fortunate vehicle. The playlet is said to have been written by George M. Cohan. Cohan has an unhappy fashion of confusing the sublime with the ridiculous; but in spite of that, Miss Booth makes a pretty good best of a bad bargain. She is assisted by Charles Deland and Frank Dickson.

Next in merit comes one of the two Kinsons. The one is a mimic perhaps unsurpassed by any. His imitations of musical instruments are at times amazing in their perfection. The act is good, very good.

Valadon, the magician, presents a series of illusions that is both mystifying and attractive. His stage act is excellent, and some of the things he does are unquestionably of a high order. His performance is well worth seeing.

Bert Earle, who according to the program, once played a banjo duet with the king of England, certainly can pick the banjo as well as any. That is evident to the audience that if Earle left off 40 per cent of his affections and did away with $1 worth of work he would reap more money than he does. Neither his affections nor his makeup, however, interfered with his work on the banjo.

An exceptionally good turn of the night is given by Leo Donnelly, a monologist. He tells "his experiences" in a manner that is entirely satisfactory. His stage act is excellent, and some of the things he does are unquestionably of a high order. His performance is well worth seeing.

For the second time this season "The Devil" is in Salt Lake. The play is in the form of a dramatic offering, and the Grand was packed last evening to see Willie Hall and his company in the dramatic offering which has caused a merry theatrical war among producing managers in New York. The play has been called daring and cunning and it is all that and more, and Mr. Hall's presentation last evening gave Salt Lake theatregoers an excellent opportunity of witnessing a splendid performance of the sensational drama. It is a rare show—those clever satirical lines of the play—the daring and original situations—all cleverly portrayed by an excellent actor in the personage of Mr. Hall, ably assisted by his most capable company. The bill runs throughout the week, with the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

"Brewster's Millions," the most popular story ever written by George Barr McCutcheon, will be presented in its dramatized form at the Salt Lake theatre tonight. It is full of humor, and the dramatic possibilities in it have been well developed in the stage adaptation, made by Winchell Smith and Byron Oney. This will be its second presentation in this city.

The role of Monty Brewster is taken by Robert Ober, upon whom the burden of the play rests. Determined to win the $7,000,000 left by an uncle, providing he spends a million left by a grandfather, inside of a year, he embarks on a career with the sole purpose of spending the million. He employs a big force of clerks to do nothing, buys stock that is sure to go down, deposits money in tottering banks, is an angel to an actress, publishes books for poor authors and crowns his "foibles" by taking his friends on a world cruise in a yacht, and succeeds, when he despairs of reaching the goal, by outwitting his friends. He judged him, and would save him and his fortune by hoisting a signal of distress in a yacht in a storm, which requires the payment of the remaining half-million dollars for salvage. Every moment is a moment of activity. Every few seconds of time he has to fight to become poor, but by much hard work and great cleverness he becomes a millionaire, a pauper, wins the girl he loves and realizes the $7,000,000.

NO LONGER AMBITIOUS.

General Firmin Pledges His Support to General Simon.

Port au Prince, Dec. 13.—The steamship Virginia, with 116 exiles on board, including General Firmin, arrived here today. General Firmin was welcomed by representatives of General Simon and rode to the palace in the presidential carriage. There the distinguished revolutionaryist told General Simon that he had surrendered all ambition for political preference. He had twice attempted to rid his country of the despotic tyranny exercised over it by Nord Alexis, he said, and had failed, and was natural that General Simon, who had succeeded in this same effort, should be selected. He urged all Haytiens to rally to the support of the liberal government, and that General Simon would lift the country to prosperity and power by achievements of peace and labor.

CONSULTATION OF PHYSICIANS

If Operation Upon President Castro Is Necessary It Will Be Performed in Berlin.

DICTATOR LEAVES PARIS

CONSENTS TO AN INTERVIEW WHILE ABOARD TRAIN.

Paris, Dec. 13.—President Castro of Venezuela and his party left here today for Cologne, where a consultation of physicians will be held to determine the advisability of an operation on the president. If an operation is found necessary, Dr. Israel probably will perform it at Berlin.

Castro kept himself closely confined to his hotel here, refusing to give out any statement to newspaper men, except through some members of his suite. On the train today, however, he accorded an interview to a representative of the Temps, saying that as he was leaving France he felt at liberty to receive a journalist. The interview, which was made by Castro at Santander to the effect that he wanted to settle Venezuela's diplomatic differences and, so far as his country was concerned, had already made the first steps in that direction. He said, however, that everything for the moment must be subordinated to the restoration of his health.

Avoided Direct Reply.

While avoiding a direct question as to what he expected to do toward settling Venezuela's foreign quarrels, he made it clear that the resumption of diplomatic relations with France depended entirely upon the settlement of the French Cable company controversy.

"It is incontestable," he said, "that the French Cable company was against my government in the Matos revolution."

But that did not justify the expulsion of M. Taigny, the chargé d'affaires, said the interviewer.

"I took occasion when I touched there," said the president, "to authorize the French subjects at Caracas, to evidence of my desire for reconciliation."

Debt Deposited.

"And the payment of the diplomatic debt under The Hague convention," remarked Castro. "In default of a French representative at Caracas, the monthly payments have been deposited with the State Bank of Venezuela."

Asked why he had refused to allow the Brazilian legation to act for France, President Castro replied:

"Because Brazil has charge of the interests of the United States, and in the interest of the good relations and solidarity of the American republic it was deemed inadvisable to permit a neighboring republic to look after the affairs of an European power."

President Castro asserted that Venezuela desired peace and harmony with France and the other powers, but declared such a condition was dependent upon others as well as Venezuela.

COMPLETE FAILURE IS NOW BEING PREDICTED

Paris, Dec. 13.—Since the accident to the Gatun dam, part of which recently sank, the French critics who disagree with the American plan for the construction of the Panama canal have been actively predicting its complete failure. The Figaro declares that the fatal mistake on the part of the American engineers when they adopted the lock canal project, whose author, the Figaro says, is the United States, was the substitution of dams at Rio Grande and Gatun for Lepinay's plan for dams at Miraflores and Gocho, where the foundations were demonstrated to be solid.

Mystery of Rockefeller's Visit to Cleveland Explained.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 13.—John D. Rockefeller's toothache and he came here from New York to get it fixed. This announcement today explains the mystery surrounding Mr. Rockefeller's unexpected visit to his old home.

Stories varying from the selection of a minister to succeed the Rev. Dr. C. A. Eaton at the Baptist church, to the erection of a sixteen-story church and the gift of $50,000 for Oriental university, have been built up around the news of his visit, but Mr. Rockefeller disposed of them all by telling of the troublesome tooth.
